

Healthcare Innovation Program

Healing is all about the connections we make with people. You are an expert of transformation and a brilliant example of what is possible. You just might not know it yet! In this program, you will become masters of communication. You will learn to stand in your power so that you can hold space for others! Compassion, creative freedom and intuition are the center of finding one's path.

Every student will have their own reasons for doing this program. Whatever your passion is we can teach you how to follow it. The thing that sets your heart on fire and makes steam come out of your ears! It is usually connected to your trauma, so that's why building a safe place for you to learn from your experience is our priority.

To be a great healer, you must apply everything you know to yourself, this is more of a way of life than an education for a job. You will be the new leaders and role models for a better society. True leaders do not seek power they are given trust. Great teachers do not need authority they understand they are always learning. These are your true skills, they must be lived and nourished.

It is not about changing who you are, it is becoming who you were always meant to be. Only then can you get on with doing what you were born to do! Only your heart can tell you what that is.

What you can do during this education is limitless. This is like elite navy seal training for compassion. Some of our students will stay and work with us and others will go out and start up their own social change projects with our full support.

Perhaps one of the most important contributions you will be able to make with this program is to empower, motivate, and inspire yourself. The world becomes a better place one person at a time. All it takes is willingness and belief.

Have a wonderful day!

Patience
